Fran. Give you good night.
Mar. O farewell honeſt ſouldiers : who hath relieved you?
Fra. Bernardo hath my place : give you good night. Exit Fran.
Mar. Holla Barnardo.
Bar. Say, what is Horatio there?
Hora. A peece of him.
Bar. Welcome Horatio, welcome good Marcellus.
Hora. What, ha's this thing appear'd againe to night?
Bar. I have ſeene nothing.
Mar. Horatio ſayes 'tis but a phantaſie,
And will not let beliefe take hold of him,
Touching this dreaded ſight twice ſeene of us;
Therefore I have entreated him along,
With us to watch the minutes of this night,
That if againe this apparition come,
He may approve our eyes and ſpeake to it.
Hora. Tuſh, tuſh, 'twill not appeare.
Bar. Sit downe a while,
And let us once againe aſſaile your eares
That are ſo fortified againſt our ſtory,
What we have two nights ſeene.
Hora. Well, ſit we downe,
And let us heare Barnardo ſpeake of this.
Bar. Laſt night of all,
When yond ſame ſtar that's Weſtward from the Pole,
Had made his courſe t'illumine that part of heaven
Where now it burnes, Marcellus and my ſelfe,
The Bell then beating one.

Enter Ghoſt.

Mar. Peace, breake thee off, looke where it comes againe.
Bar. In the ſame figure, like the King that's dead.
Mar. Thou art a Scholar, ſpeake to it Horatio.
Hor. Moſt like, it horrowes me with feare and wonder.
Bar. It would be ſpoke to.
Mar. Speake to it Horatio.
Hora. What art thou that uſurpſt this time of night,
Together with that faire and warlike forme,
In which the Majeſty of buried Denmarke

Did

Did ſometimes march?
Mar. It is offended.
Bar. See it ſtalkes aw
Hor. Stay, ſpeake, ſpe

Mar. 'Tis gone and
Bar. How now Hora
Is not this ſomething m
What thinke you of it?
Hora. Before my Go
Without the ſenſible an
Of mine owne eyes.
Mar. Is it not like th
Hor. As thou art to
Such was the very armo
When he th' ambitious
So frown'd he once, wh
He ſmote the ſleaded
'Tis ſtrange.
Mar. Thus twice be
With martiall ſtalke h
Hora. In what parti
But in the groſſe and ſc
This bodes ſome ſtrang
Mar. Good now ſit
Why this ſame ſtrict a
So nightly toiles the ſu
And with ſuch daily co
And forraine Mart for
Why ſuch impreſſe of
Does not divide the Su
What might be towar
Doth make the night j
Who is't that can infor
Hora. That can I:
At leaſt the whiſper go
Whoſe image even bu
Was, as you know, by

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Hamlet (STC 22279) LONDON, 1637 THE BODLEIAN LIBRAR